SENATOR HILL

Transfers His "Gang" Headquarters to Washington,

WHERE HE WILL CONTINUE THE FIGHT For the Success of the National

HE WILL BE SWORN IN TODAY,

Democracy.

And Will Take His Place Between Gordon, Gorman and Brice.

WASHINGTON, January 6.—[Special.]—Sen-ator David B. Hill reached here from Albany He has taken apartments at the Arlington. At noon tomorrow he will be sworn in as Notwithstanding the bluffs of Senator Billy Chandler, there will be no question raised as to his right to a seat. He will sit between Senator Gordon and Senator Brice, and immediately in the rear of Senator Gorman.

An Object of Attention. Of course, the fact that he is to be sworn in will attract a crowd to the senate chamber, for right at this junction the distinguished Yorker is more an object of interest than even the president. He will receive a hearty welcome, perhaps an ovation, from the democratic senators to row, for in his great victory in saving New York to the democracy, he has won the esteem and love of every good democrat in America. In remaining in New York until the demoerats had not only won the general assembly, but until it was organized and all democratic officers were elected and sworn in, he has shown his wisdom as a brainy and nervy politician who will not allow his party to be de-frauded of its rights by either trickery or corruption. But he has finished his work in New York for the present. Although the republicans are starting all kinds of rumors of his plans to hold the state, they

A Talk with the Senator. I came over from New York with Senator Hill this afternoon. While such action on our part would not be unconstitutional, there is no cessity for it. New York is a democratic state. She is going to cast her vote that way

Talks About Atlanta. Senator Hill talked much of his visit to Atlanta, and was very complimentary in his ref-erence to the eloquent speech of Hon. Fleming du Bignon at Atlanta. He characterized it as one of the finest speeches he had ever heard. Senator Hill will remain here during the session, though it is probable that he will go down to Savannah and get a few days of needed rest at the DeSoto about the 1st of February. It is possible he might spend a day at the Bon-Air in Augusta also. E. W. B.

Little Mr. Wanamaker. Postmaster General Wanamaker is attempting to get up some campaign material out of that a confederate flag has been flying to the breezes over the postoffice building at Baird, Tex. The report has come to him that the postoffice is in a store, and the hoisted a confederate flag over the building. Mr. Wanamaker has ordered an inspector to go out to Texas and investigate the matter, and if found true to have the office removed.

The Georgians Will Stay. Discussing the Silver Question In the senate the day was devoted to the discussion of the point raised yesterday by Senator Stewart. The main speech was that of Senator Morrill, chairman of the finance nittee. Senator Teller held the floor on the other side for the balance of the day.

John Sibley and Colonel Pinson, of Coweta the two Georgia applicants for reading clerks' places in the house, are here still. But they are rather disappointed today, for the clerk has intimated to them that he has found better readers. However, they will remain in t contest until it is closed. E. W. B.

MR. BLAINE'S ILLNESS.

The Secretary Has a Sudden Attack, Which Causes Alarm.

Washington, January 6.—Great excitement was caused in the department of state this forenoon by a report that Secretary Blaine had been taken suddenly ill while at work in his office. The report proved to be true, but svery precaution was taken to prevent the fact becoming public

The alarm was great at first, but subsided about noon, when the secretary was reported as resting easily and as being entirely out of danger. The nature of his illness is not known at present, but is said to be due altogether to temporary stomachic derangement. He was subsequently removed to his house and is expected to be able to be out tomorrow.

An Attack of Indigestion. A number of sensational rumors were set affoat tonight concerning Secretary Blaine's illness, but several physicians who have seen Mr. Blaine concur that it was nothing more than an acute attack of indigestion, caused by overeating. After he had been relieved by an emetic and rested a short time, he was able to emetic and rested a short time, he was able to walk to his carriage and go home. But for a time there was considerable excitement at the state department and at Mr. Blaine's home. COST OF THE CENSUS.

Superintendent Porter Asks for More Money to Complete the Census. WASHINGTON, January 6.—The acting secretary of the treasury today sent to congress a letter from Robert P. Porter, superintendent of the census, accompanied by a deficiency estimate of $1,000,000 for continuing the work of the census. the census, which appropriation it is asked made in the urgency deficiency bill. The letter of Superintendent Forter, which is dated December 29, 1891, says that the work of the census office is well advanced, and that if the appropriation asked for be made immediately to a termination by the close of 1892 or the spring of 1883. There now remains available only $144,562, and about 'two hundred clerks have been furloughed. The census appropriations thus far aggregate $6,400,000.

SHERMAN NOMINATED.

End of the Struggle Between the Republicans of Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., January 6 .- The joint legislative caucus convened at 8 o'clock in the hall of the house of representatives, Speaker Laylin presiding. The vast audience crowded the galleries, but they were cleared out after much trouble. The first division took place on a motion of the Foraker men for a secret ballot. After an hour's excited discussion the motion was defeated, and a substitute providing for an open ballot was adopted-47 to 44, three members not voting. Sherman, Foraker, Mc-Kinley and Foster were formally placed in nomination. The nominations of Sherman and Foraker were seconded by several gentlemen upon each side, and it was 10 o'clock before a ballot was reached.

Just before the ballot, a telegram from Mc-Kinley was received saving:

Kinley was received saying:

I have been advised that my name may be presented. Promptly withdraw it.

Upon this authority the chairman withdrew McKinley's rame, but this action did not prevent Mr. Welch, who nominated him, from subsequently voting for his candidate. The result was: Sherman 53, Foraker 38, Foster 1, McKinley 1, and amid tremendous applause Mr. Sherman was declared the nominee.

VALUE OF CEREAL CROPS. Aggregate of Supply the Largest Ever Known,

Washington, January 6.—The estimates by states and territories of the area, product and value of the principal cereals of the United States for 1891, made by the statistician of the States for 1891, made by the statistician of the department of agriculture, are given to the press tonight. The crops of corn, wheat and oats, including all but 2 or 3 per cent of the cereal aggregate, are reported. The total for corn has only been exceeded once. The wheat product is the largest ever grown in any country, and the yield per acre in the United States is the largest ever reported by the department of agriculture. The total for oats was slightly exceeded in 1889. The aggregates are as follows:

Corn-Area, 76,204,515 acres; product, 2,060,154,-Corn—Area, 76,204,515 acres; product, 2,060,154,-000 bushels; value, 853,6433,225.

The wheat supply is the largest ever reported in proportion to population, averaging 9.4 bushels to each person, against 9.2 for the largest previous crop, in 184. The average valueto the farmer is 40.6 cents for corn, 83.93 cents for wheat and 31.46 cents for oats. The products are, of course, in measured bushels. The value of wheat is greater than in any year since 1883, that of the short crop of 1888 alone excepted.

ON GRANTING AN APPROPRIATION.

The Republicans Turn the Debate to Political Account.

LOOKING UP THE RECORD OF PERKINS,

Who Used His Position on a Conference Committee to Get Through an Appropriation Which Benefited Himself.

WASHINGTON, January 6 .- [Special.]-The house spent the entire afternoon debating the resolution which passed the senate yesterday for the appropriation of $100,000 to transpo the flour, corn and other food material contributed in the northwest and elsewhere, for the relief of the starving peasants of Russia.

Mr. Blount, of Georgia, in charge of the motion, pressed it vigorously, but without Bidding for the Jewish Vote. The sympathy for those in the famine stricken district was universal, but some of the democrats raised the question as to the constitu tional power of congress to contribute money for charitable purposes, and the republican were eager to place them in a position of hos tility to the proposed relief for political pur-poses. It was an open bid for the Jewish vote next year.

The bloviating consumed four hours, and in the end amounted to nothing. Sifted of politics, the proposition for the expenditure by the government of money for public charity had few merits. Some of the northwestern millers would have gotton a big advertisement out of it by shipping their flour across the country in cars decorated with banners bearing the legend, "Washburn's Best Flour, En Route for Rus sia," etc. The czar of all the Russias, the most despotic monarch on earth, who is now berrow-ing money from the Rothschilds with which to buy ordnance and ammunition "to main tain the peace of Europe," when he ought to be buying flour instead of powder, might have extended to the United States his thanks and renewed evidences of his most distinguished consideration, but that would not have aided his starving subjects.

A Solution Offered.

The only sensible solution of the whole problem offered this afternoon was that of De-Witt C. Warner, of New York. He showed that the expenditure of $100,000 by the United States for carrying the flour contributed by the charity of our people, would be a mis-direction of the money, and as far as the object aimed at was concerned, a piece of -utter What the starving peasants of Russia need is instant relief. The ports of the Baltic are now closed, and if a vessel were chartered here, it would have to go up the Mediter ranean to the Black sea, and land the cargo there. This voyage, with the time required to get the cargo to the seaboard, would consum at least six weeks of valuable time. When the stuff was landed on the shores of the Black sea, it would still be as far from the famine stricken district as Omaha is from San Francisco, with the means of transportation as slow and laborious as they were from Omaha to the Golden Gate before the days of the Pacific railroads. It would, therefore, be six months before the food designed for the famished peasants could reach them. Mr. Warner proposed that the supplies contributed by the American people be sold, and the money cabled or sent immediately. The charity of our people would then reach its des-tination in time to do some good.

How the Matter Was Disposed Of. Most of the members concurred in the sugestion, but the republicans, still pursuin matter from a political standpoint, insisted on the resolution. It was, however, first stripped of the appropriation, and then laid on the table indefinitely. The contributors of the charity will now have the alternative of securing their own means of transportation and sending it by the long and tedious route indicated by Mr. Warner, or else of adopting his suggestion and converting it into cash, and sending the money by cable or otherwise to the immediate relief of the starving subjects

Who Mr. Perkins Is. Senator Perkins, the new Kansas senator, has not been warmly received by his colleagues His appointment has disgusted most of the Kansas, as well as the other republicans, who served with him in congress. After a long career in the house, in which Judge Perkin showed himself to be an able man, he blotched his record by participating in the Choctaw and Cherokee land steal, which went through the last congress. In 1889 congress purchased from the Cheyennes and Arapahoes a large amount of land. Subsequently there appear before congress a claim amounting to $1,500,4 000, based on the grounds that the Cherokees and Choctaws had an interest in the land. Perkins was a member of the house committ on Indian affairs, and pushed this claim with great vigor. It was rejected by the house on a square vote, it having been shown that this claim had no valid foundation. The senate committee also smothered it, but when it came into conference in the closing hours of the billion congress it was found that Perkins, who was one of the conferees had inserted an appropriation for the pay-ment of this claim. It was too late to send the bill back to the conference, or there would have been no Indian appropriation for the present fiscal year. However, after the bill was passed, and congress had adjourned, dirty Joe Cannon went to President Harrison and Secretary Noble, and explained the character of the job. The payment of the claim has been withheld by the president's direction, and whistling for their share of the plunder. It is this part of Perkins's record that has made Governor Humphrey's selection a disappoint Nominations Confirmed.

Today a snow, the first in years, envelops the town, as though to hide the work of the night before.

In two homes are families weeping over their dead. Twenty victims of the storm are suffering from their injuries.

The breaking down of the wires prevented the citizens from notifying the outside world, and the dispatch written by THE CONSTITU-TION correspondent had to share the fate of all the rest. The Killed and Wounded

Those who were killed are Will Travis, who as recently moved here, and Sallie Graham, a little niece of Mrs. Judge R. T. Dorsey and Mrs. W. T. Waters, of Atlanta. Several others are momentarily expected to Those slightly injured are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham, their four children, Jimmie, Emy, Rus, Mary Lou; Tom Bushin, Mrs. Lizzie Henderson, a child of Charley Watherly, the two Garrison children, and Mrs. Garrison.

Those badly wounded are Tom Curlin, who attends school here; Freeman Simmons, his wife, a little negro girl named Jones, and D.

All of the latter are in a critical condition, and may die at any moment.

The Coming of the Storm Last night, as the residents were at their supper, a gradually increasing noise in the southwest, and a dense black cloud gave indications of an approaching storm. Louder and louder it became. The wind blew fiercely, and every one sought shelter. Then the wind began to ease, while a thousand cannon seemed simultaneously booming All of a sudden a huge funnel-shaped cloud burst upon the town, and a moment later all was still. The heavy rain that followed fell in torrents upon more than a dozen wrecked homes. Immediately those who had escaped the cyclone rushed from their homes to ascen tain the damage done. There were groans and cries of terror, the negroes adding to it by their frightened shricks. The storm covered a width of 200 yards. It grazed the tree tops in the woods, and just as it reached the town eemed to swoop down upon it, and, like an undulating wave of smoke and fire, gathered up its prey, and either dashed it to the ground or carried it through the air. The Work of Destruction

The first house struck was the parn of Mr. J. W. Graham, local agent of the Washington Life Insurance Company, and some fine stock was killed. In his home near by his family of twelve had huddled with fear in a large room. The storm struck the chimney, throwing it upon Sallie Kate, a child of eight years, pinning her to the floor, lifeless. Then the house collapsed, and was soon in utter ruin. All the more occupants were hurt, more or less seriously. Mr. Graham's ginto B. L. McGough, and a cottage, out of which Dr. Davis had just moved, followed in the track of destruction. The Fayetteville seminary, a building which withstood the war, was soon a mass of broken desks, books, tables and school children would have been buried in the At the home of Mrs. Lizzie Henderson, a widow, Mrs. Travis, her daughter, was lying sick. She, herself, was tending a baby a day old. When the wind began to beat against the panes Mr. Will Travis rushed to move his wife away from the window. He was drawn through it and caffied 200 yards through the air. The house was crushed, but the mother and two children were but slightly hurt. Two hours afterwards Mr. Travis was found by a mystery.

Anna Smith's family of three saw their home leveled to the ground, yet they, too were without a single injury. A barn, con taining eleven mules, belonging to Mr. A. O Blalock, was blown away, and not a single mule was harmed. The house of Freeman Simmons, Sr., and Freeman Simmons, Jr., the dwelling of Sang Favor, and the large house of T. F. Garrison were blown to pieces. The home of Dr. Davis was lifted into the air. The pillars were shattered and the building fell to the ground, remaining standing without its former supports. The occupants survived this peculiar ride without a trace of injury.

Blown Fifteen Miles, The big alliance warehouse was the last to go. But few bales of cotton were left, and to-day Luther Evans found a part of the structure in Henry county, fifteen miles away. It was easily identified, being the only building of corrugated iron in the section around about. Just over in Clayton county, not far from Jonesboro, not an outhouse remained. The barns of Andrew Chatman were ruined, and a negro blown out of his cabin and into the air. He was carried through a tree. The branches checked his fall, and he tumbled to the ground with both legs and an arm broken. He was discovered by Mr. W. G. Travis, of Selina, a brother of the man killed here, who thinks that the negro will recover.

Another miraculous escape from death was that of Mrs. Lillian Graham, a sister of the child who was killed. She was ill, and when the storm came had retired. She was thrown from her bed and a second later it was crush to pieces, while she arose, frightened and stunned, but otherwise unhurt. The Grahams are housed for the present at Mrs. Graham's father's, Mr. Bennett's. The gentleman has Dorsey, is now here, and the promised joyous occasion is forgotten in the gloom.

The Cyclone at Millen.

MILLEN, Ga., January 6.—[Special.]—A terrible cyclone passed near here yesterday afternoon, causing a great loss of property. It struck the plantation of J. H. One of the dwellings blown down contained thirteen people, none of whom were seriously injured.

OAKLAND, Fla., January 6.—A destructive wind storm passed over this town about 10 o'clock this forenoon, doing great damage to property and causing one death. The path of the tornado was one mile in width. Nearly everything in its track was leveled to the ground. At the east end of the town it struck the two-story cottage of P. H. Mrs. Roper was found badly crushed and jammed in between the timbers, and already dead. She must have been instantly killed.

A BRAZILIAN RIOT.

New York, January 6.—The Brazilian mail steamship Seguranca, which arrived at quarantine this morning from Brazilian ports, brings a terrible story of suffering and death from both yellow fever and bullets at Pernambuco, Brazil. An epidemic of yellow fever, with a terribly high rate of mortality, has been raging at Pernambuco for some time. The government sent a military governor to Pernambuco to replace the former governor of that place. The people regarded this as an act of tyranny and oppression. When, on December 17th, the military governor appeared, surrounded by troops, the revolutionary feel-ings of the people broke loose and a storm was soon raging. A Regular Battle

The soldiers endeavored to disperse the citizens and were pelted with stones and other missiles. The order then came to fire on the people, and at the first volley a dozen citizens revolutionists gave way, but quickly gathered renewed courage and prepared to make an obstinate resistance. The troops charged upon and drove them from street to street. A pitched battle took place on one of the plazas. The citizens fought stubbornly, but the trained

Monday, are expected to prepare and file the papers here. To Fight the Lease.

The next step will be directed against the lease, and will take the general lines of the decision of Judge Speer in the Hamilton case, on Monday. As pointed out in THE Con-STITUTION, this is one of the most important railroad decisions ever handed down. Together with the decision in the equally famous Branch case, it is said to cover the position of the Central railroad entirely. In the Branch case Judge Speer held that under the constitution of the state of Georgia one railroad could not control a competing line. His decision in that case has attracted the attention of lawyers all over the country as one of the most thorough expositions of the character in existence.

The Meaning of Judge Speer's Decision.

A more thorough study of his decision of Monday brings new points to the front of vast importance, not yet given in The Constitution, but which will play such a leading part in the case that everybody is looking forward to it. Judge Speer holds that, irrespective of the constitution, under the common law one railroad can not buy or control another by acquiring stock or otherwise, as encouraging monopoly. Neither can it make any contract or agreement which may have the effect of encouraging monopoly. Even if the constitution of the state did not prevent this, Judge Speer held that the common law does. He also held that the constitutional clause forbidding the assembly to authorize any corporation to buy stock in another or make any contract or agreement which may have corporation to buy stock in another or make any contract or agreement which may have the effect to defeat or lessen competition, or to encourage monopoly, is self-operative, and needs no legislation to enforce it. On these grounds all such contracts and agreements must be illegal and void. It is held that such a lease as that of the Central must be void under the decisions mentioned, and that a court of equity would interfere to protect the property for the benefit of those entitled to it. It is accepted by lawyers that those back of the movement on the tapis will take up Judge the movement on the tapis will take up Judge Speer's decisions referred to, and make them the foundation of whatever steps they take.

• The Election Genuine. THE CENTRAL DIRECTORS WILL HOLD THEIR

OFFICES FOR ONE YEAR. SAVANNAH, Ga., January 6.—[Special.]— Last night I called General Alexander's attention to the statement, published in the New York Herald, that the officers of the Central are to retain their places only until a future election, to take place after the Olcott committee has reported a plan for the reorganization of the Terminal, and it has been accepted by the stockholders. At the same time I placed before him the letter purporting to have been written by President Olcott, of the Central trust, in which the statement occurs that the directors elected will only hold office until the plans of the Olcott committee have been ratified by the Terminal stockholders.

The General's Answer He read the extracts over carefully, and then wrote the following for THE CONSTITU-

"The election of directors of the Central railroad yesterday was held under the charter, which does not permit of either a temporary or of a postponed election. The charter requires the election to be held on the first Monday of January, and no further election is possible under it unless the number of directors should be reduced below five, in which case, only after thirty days' advertisement, should an election ake place.

That Is the Answer. "There," said he, as he handed it to me, "that is the only answer I can make. It covers the ground concisely and thoroughly."

General Alexander says that a statement in the interview published Monday does an in justice to Mr. Calhoun. It reads:
"Nearly all of Mr. Calhoun's statements were characterized by him (Alexander) as highly improbable." The general said:

"It was only the intention to wreck the Cen-tral railroad, which Mr. Calhoun assigned to the Danville board, which I spoke of as highly mprobable, giving at the same time my reasons for this opinion, and I expressly declined to comment upon his state facts." The sections of the charter of the Central railroad, as quoted above by General Alexander, are also a full and sufficient answer to the statement sent out by Secretary Raub, of the Terminal company, which appeared in today's CONSTITUTION.

How the Question Was Decided.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., January 6.—[Special.]—A novel murder story, even for the mining regions, comes from Walker county. Two miners, John Ryan and Pat McGuff, became involved in a quarrel over the merits and demerits of the Roman Catholic church. The controversy ended in McGuff braining Ryan with a pick. He was arrested and lodged in Jali.

Charles Cummings Will Have to Pay the

ON THE 19TH OF NEXT FEBRUARY.

The Jury Was Out but Seven Minutes, When It Brought in a Verdict of Guilty.

SAVANNAH, Ga., January 6 .- [Special.]-The trial of Charles Cummings, the negro murderer of David Williams, began in the superior court this morning at 11 o'clock, and was concluded this afternoon at 2 o'clock. was found guilty and will bang Friday, Feb-The execution will be private. The most important witness for the prosecution was Ephraim Baker, colored. He testified that he saw Cummings fire the fatal shot at a party given at a colored woman's house near the city. The killing occurred November 23, 1889. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty after an absence from the courtroom of only seven minutes.

In passing sentence the judge said that the prisoner had had a fair and impartial trial, with the advantage of able and zealous counsel. He had listened carefully to the evidence and saw no palliation for the crime. He felt that the verdict was just, and that he was enforcing the law in visiting upon him the extreme penalty.

The prisoner was slightly nervous, but displayed no real emotion while the judge was delivering his death sentence.

HE BURNED THE SHERIFF'S BARN

Because the Latter Had Killed His Brotherin-Law.

MACON, Ga., January 6 .- [Special.] -- Charley Turner, a negro, was arrested in Macon yesterday afternoon, charged with having burned the barn of Sheriff Ennis, of Baldwin county, in retaliation for the killing of his brother-in-law, Crawford Vassar, by Sheriff Ennis, in Macon last October, while Vassar was trying to escape from the officer. At the depot this morning Turner broke loose from Sheriff Ennis, and, though handcuffed, ran a good distance before he was captured. He wa carried back to the depot, then chained to a car seat, and thus taken to Milledgeville to be tried for incendiarism.

He Arrives in Milledgeville. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., January 6 .- [Special.] On the train Turner fought like a tiger, and the bell cord was used to bind him. His desperate efforts to escape were equaled only by his coolness when thoroughly overpowered, and as he was hauled from the depot he was puffing a pipe with the peaceful complacency of a king. This, case has excited great interest in this section, as the evidence against the prisoner is strong. Another

His address made a strong impression, and will doubtless be productive of much good.

The Augusta Herald on Fire. AUGUSTA, Ga., January 6:—[Special.]—Fire was discovered in The Evening Herald office tonight. The office was flooded with water and the cases were soaked. The new Scott perfecting press was wet and maybe damaged. The management ex-pects to get out the paper as usual tomorrow. The loss will amount to about five hindred dollars.

Staid in the Well All Night. MILLEDGEVILLE. Ga., January 6 .- [Specia Tom Dempsey, an old negro seventy years old, fell in a well forty feet deep last night. COMMUTED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT. Governor Holt Takes Pity on a Convicted Burglar.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 6.—[Special.]—Governor Holt today disposed of the noted case of Alfred Dawns or Dawles, the negro ourglar of Charlotte, who was under sentence to be hanged January 15th, by commuting the death sentence to imprisonment for life at hard labor in the penitentiary. The governor made the following endorsement upon the voluminous papers covering nearly a hundred verticing for propagations.

woluminous papers covering nearly a hundred petitions for commutation.

This case has nad my most serious attention. Strong appeals have been made in his behalf by many of the best citizens throughout the state, including the city of Charlotte, where the burglary was committed. After a thorough investigation of the case, I believe that the prisoner is a victim of an inordinate propensity to steal, a cowardly thief rather than a brutal villain with murderous intent, thus making him more of a sneak thief than a burglar. I am further convinced by the evidence of the sheriff and one of the jurors that the prisoner is very weak minded, to such an extent that he has not comprehended the enormity of his crime or understood the terrible effects of his sentence. I have respited him twice in order that I might be able to gain more information of the circumstances surrounding the case, and the facts in the case. I have concluded after long and careful consideration that the law will be sufficiently vindicated by imprisonment in the state prison for the term of his natual life at hard labor.

What is a Bargain? For a Complete Answer to this Question

ATTEND THIS WEEK.

We are the acknowledged leaders in Crockery and Fine Goods. Now it is a fact this whatever we take hold of always has in view the extension of those lines into an evolution, a in nature from the coarse, rude and bulky, upward to the more beautiful and attractive, more than the object of making money immediately.

Our object in giving all these splendid bargains day after day is to still further increase of large business and to secure a still stronger hold on the people through letting them see how much more real value we can give them for their money than others. Further we go on. It has never been our object to see how much money we could make from those who kindly patronize us, and our friends, in a single year, but it has been our earness desire to see how much we could give them for their money. What is the result? People feel and know that we have used them handsomely, and that we will continue to use them handsomely. Therefore, they continue to buy our merchandis, and are our customers year after year.

In this way we cause to flow towards us tens and hundreds of thousands of small streams of profit, which, coming together, make a large river of profit. That is our policy-it is broad.

It pays us much better in the long run than selling stocks at great profits for a few months Low prices and meritorious articles secure the trade. Here you have them in our American Enterprise Sales this week, which is going to walk

HE HAS RESIGNED.

Colonel W. A. Broughton Will Leave the Alliance Exchange Feb. 1st.

THE REASONS OF HIS RESIGNATION.

He Believes That One Officer Should Do All the Business-Has Cut Down the Running Expenses.

Colonel W. A. Broughton, business manager of the alliance exchange, has resigned.

His resignation will take effect on the first

Colonel Broughton/has contemplated taking this step for some time. In fact his connec tion with the exchange has only been temporary all along.

He took charge of the business end of it a few months ago, to straighten out the defi-ciency of J. O. Wynn, who previous to that time had been manager.

"I did not intend," said Colonel Broughton, yesterday, "to remain with the exchange half as long as I have, when I first come here. I took charge of Wynn's books and accounts after earnest solicitations, and have about succeeded in settling the last of his bad contracts. which have cost the alliance exchange so much. The alliance has been placed on a pretty secure hasis, and its business can be carried on with much less work than was formerly necessary. One of the reasons for my retirement is that I have always believed that the offices of president and business manager of the alliance should be consolidated into one. The salaries are more than the alliancemen should be made to pay, and since the late crookedness has been straightened out, the work of the position can be easily attended by one officer. I am unwilling longer to draw a salary of $3,000 per annum when one man could do the work for which two are drawing salaries. Then if this were no reason, my health would not permit my remaining, as it will not allow me to do office work. Then there is still another reason. My personal interests demand that I retire. My affairs at home have suffered for want of attention. I am one of the directors of the ex-change and have asked that a meeting be called, which has been done, and the directors will meet next Tuesday. At that time I shall urge the consolidation of the two offices of president and business manager. I think there will be no trouble in having this done, as I believe all of the directors will favor that

"How about the business of the exchangedoes it pay?" "Yes, the exchange is on a good, sound basis, and for awhile we did a business of $1,000 per day. It is conducted on a strictly cash plan. We have felt the depression in business, as every other business concern has, but we do a fairly good business, and there is no doubt but that the exchange can be made a grand success." Colonel Broughton receives a salary of $3,000 per annum, and President Peek gets $1,500 per year. Colonel Broughton believes that the two offices should be combined, and a salary of $3,000 paid. Colonel Broughton is a fine business man, and has done splendid work as manager of the exchange. He has held that position at a great pecuniary sacrifice, as he has a large income from his extensive farming properties. He owns an ideal southern home in the suburbs of Madison, surrounded by 1,000 acres of fine farming lands. He owns several other fine farms, which require his personal attention and supervision. He has remained at the head of the exchange at a sacrifice of personal interests be-cause he desired to aid the farm and place the exchange on a secure footing.

The reception given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bain to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis, of New York, was an exceptionally brilliant and ar-

Mr. and Mrs. Bain's home on Peachtree is a spacious mansion, beautifully arranged for entertaining. The decorations of the interior were enchanting. Entering the wide hallway into which all the apartments open, one had a view of a vista of graceful green foliage against white walls and hangings. The landings of the handwalls and hangings. The landings of the handsome oak stairway were adorned with splendid growing palms and a narrow green shelf on the wall above the first landing was filled with growing palms and ferns in pretty jardineres. From the gold molding was hung a garland of smilax looped in colonial fashion and the two rooms on the right were adorned with greenery and cut flowers.
All the floors were covered with spotless crash. All the floors were covered with spotless crash, thus accentuating the effect of white and green thus accentuating the effect of white and green which, in the supper room, as elsewhere, was ased to most enchanting effect. There is the walls were adorned with graceful bamboo and exquisite palmetto leaves very gracefully arranged. The fireplace was filled with palms. Above, up to the selling, palmetto leaves and smilax made a decoration oriental and exquisite. From the chandelier above the table were hung soft scarfs of illusion, twined with smilax, these being caught at the edge of the cloth with clusters of roses. In the center was a cloth with clusters of roses. In the center was a large star made of white hyacinths and pink carna-tions; the other ornaments were bowls of Mare-chal Niel roses and beautifully iced cakes. Around this table smaller ones were placed, where the guests were comfortably served with a perfectly delicious and most bountful supper. The apartment opening into this was arranged with small tables and decorated in the same beautiful way, and here a great wood fire sent out its cheery flames from a deep, old-fashioned place. Indeed, the decora-tions were quite the loveliest I have seen this season, and Mr. Glazier deserves especial mention as decorator.

Mrs. Frank Ellis is a woman of queenly grace, and she was a royal figure last evening in her wedding robes. A superb Paris gown it was, of richest duchesse satin, hand embroidered in pearls. The ruching was formed of ostrich tips and duchesse lace; deep duchesse lace finished the neck of the bodice, and formed the ruffles to the sleeves. Her ornaments were leavels of dazzling heauty and most exquisite set. jewels of dazzling beauty and most exquisite setting. Her bouquet was an immense one of Roman hyacinths, tied with white satin ribbon. Mrs. Donald Bain looked as fresh and winsome as a young girl, as she received her guests with that hospitable grace which is one of her talents She were a lovely toilet of pink china crepe, trimmed with ruffles of chiffon and pale

The most brilliant social event of the season eccurred in Opelika Wednesday in the marriage of Mr. Albert E. Barnett, of Birmingham, to Miss Mamie Banks, of this city. Mr. Barnett is a prominent young lawyer of Birmingham and is well and favorably known throughout the state of Alabama. Miss Mamie is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Rev. D. M. Banks, of Opelika.

One of the most interesting society events in Newnan recently, was the marriage of Miss Daisy Dews, at the Baptist church, to Mr. R. L. Rockwell, of Savannah, Ga., Rev. J. H. Hall, D.D., officiating.

Dews, at the Baptist church, to Mr. R. L. Rockwell, of Savannah, Ga., Rev. J. H. Hall, D.D., officiating.

The Baptist church, in Greenesboro, was the scene of a brilliant wedding Wednesday morning at half-past 9 o'clock, the contracting parties being Dr. T. B. Rice and Miss Maymie Bowen. To the wedding march, played by Miss Jessie Wilson, the wedding party entered in the following order, the ladice entering on the right aisle, the gentleinen on the left, crossing in front of the pulpit and arranging themselves in the form of a circle, in the center of which the bride and groom stood: Misses Jude Weaver and Julia Branch, Messrs. E. A. Sanford, of Woodville, and B. P. Kimbrough: Misses Essie Robinson, and Mary Lizzie Torbert, Messrs. C. E. Monfort and Ray Stauffacher, of Atlanta. The bride entered, accompanied by Miss Cora Davis, and the groom accompanied by Lieutenant O. H Weaver. The Greene Rifles, of which command Dr. Rice has long been one of the most popular members, in fatigue uniform, followed the bridal party, marching in file down each aisle and ranging themselves behind the circle formed by the attendants. Rev. G. W. Garner, in an impressive manner, pronounced them husband and wife.

MR. M'MILLAN WRITES A CARD. And Miss Smythe Writes a Letter Exonerating Him from Blame.

Miss Smythe, the girl who was mixed up in the unfortunate trouble with Mr. Will McMil-lan some time ago, has written a letter to a friend in Atlanta, fully and freely exonerating him of any charge of having intimidated her. She acknowledges her guilt and says she will not prosecute him, nor did she authorize any legal step to be taken against him.

The following card from Mr. McMillan will explain itself:

EDITOR CONSTITUTION—I respectfully ask leave to make a reply to what has appeared in your columns concerning my conduct with Miss Jean Smythe on last Christmas eve.
The woman in question is not a young girl. She is not less than twenty-five years of age, and I did not take any advantage of her, or use any false and fraudulent means to entice her into wrongdaing. explain itself:

and fraudulent means to entice her into wrongdoing.

This woman stated to her physician that she made no statement whatever to any person that she was intimidated or any way forced by words or actions to go to the room with me.

The woman drank wines and liquors. It was her habit, and I am not responsible for it. I am simply unfortunate in that I was caught there, and had the fraces with Mr. Dean, whom I did not wish present, That I was indiscreet and wrong in this I admit, and can only add that I am sorry for it.

And yet I am branded as a felon, incarcerated in a dungeon for two days and one night any not permitted to see my brother or to have and communication whatever with anybody, consigned, as it were, to a bastile. So much for the chief of police and his vigilant assistant, Captain Couch, I say now deliberately, that so far as my relations with Miss Smythe appeared to be wrong, or were wrong, she freely and fully consented thereto.
Regretting the necessity of having to make this statement, and admitting for the sake of argument my indiscretion, I feel that I am the victim of sensationalism, and suffered gross injustice at the hands of petty tyrants.

Respectfully,
W. V. MoMillan.

At Their Old Game.

At stated intervals the word goes rot among the organs of the gold trust that the nations of Europe are getting ready to reconsider their attitude on the silver question. This has been going on ever since free coinage has been an issue. At first a great many sincere people were deceived by the reports, and a number of democrats have been in duced to favor what is known as an international agreement.

Mr. Cleveland, following the suggestion of the democrats who believe in the sincerity of the monometallists, went so far as to send a commissioner to Europe for the purpose of drumming up an international conference. Naturally, Mr. Atkinson failed, but he was so profoundly interested in his mission that he wrote a book about it, or, rather, he wrote a report about it, which was issued in book form by the government. - In this book Mr. Atkinson, in his blunt way, went on to show why the gold nations of Europe would never agree to restore silver. They had become convinced that the government of the United States was interested in the matter simply and solely because it wanted to find a convenient hole in which to pour a vast accumulation of silver bullion. The financial literature contained in the goldbug organs had convinced the financiers of Europe that the North American continent was ready to pour into the lap of the old world an avalanche of silver without regard to the cost of production and at any price that could be obtained. The most wonderful thing about this is the confession of Mr. Atkinson that he at one time entertained such an opinion.

Mr. Atkinson's investigations in Europe convinced him that "it would be unwise and inexpedient for the United States again to take the initiative in promoting action for a general adoption of a bimetallic legal tender coupled with the free coinage of silver, for the reason that such action is misconstrued and may tend to retard rather than to promote the object aimed at. The reason is this: The general conviction among the financial men in Europe is that the United States government is loaded with an excessive quantity of silver dollars which it cannot get into circulation."

The fears of these foreign financiers had nothing to go on when Mr. Atkinson wrote, but now the conditions are all changed. The government is now engaged in accumulating a store of silver bullion equal to more than the output of our mines, and this accumulation, growing vaster every day, will effectually prevent any international conference.

In spite of this, little Mr. Seligman, a New York banker with a literary turn, has been tramping about over Europe trying to get un a conference, and we are now told, with a great deal of circumlocution and a corre sponding degree of vagueness that hardly anything stands now in the way of the con ference but the fear that congress will push a free coinage bill.

It is the same old fake exploded by Mr. Atkinson. There was nothing in it seven years ago, and there is nothing in it now. We are told that England will open the In dian mints to silver-as if they had ever been closed-and that everything will go off in beautiful style, provided the free coinage men will only have patience.

We are of the opinion, however, that the free coinage men have had patience enough. They should push the issue with vigor. There is no advantage for the United States whatever in an international conference. Of all the nations of the earth this government is the most independent. Did England consult the United States when it demonetized silver in 1816? Did the United States government go around bellowing for an inter national conference when it chose to regulate and adjust the mint values of the two

There is nothing in the proposition, and nothing would grow out of it if fifty international conferences were held. There is nothing like taking a common-sense view of matters.

Parson Dixon on Ingersoll.

The Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., a wellknown Baptist preacher in Brooklyn, knows how to deal with Colonel Bob Ingersoll.

Mr. Dixon advises his brother clergymen not to take Ingersoll too seriously. He is for a free platform and a free press. If Ingersoll can demolish a creed it ought to be demolished. Truth that cannot stand the electric search light of this age is not truth. The infidel is not a scientist nor a historian. He is an orator, a poet, a sentimentalist, a demagogue. But he has his uses, and perhaps his divine uses. He attacks historic Christianity, and not the Christianity of Christ. His reckless statements and stupid iznorance of history have done much to lead teople to study and investigate for them selves, and his half-truths have helped to rid the world of many superstitions, lies, shams, humbugs and pretenses that used to be accepted as orthodox truth.

Parson Dixon's parting shot at Ingersol is a good one. He says: "If God could choose Balaam's ass to speak a divine message, I do not see why he could not utilize the colonel."

This is a better way to fight Ingersoll than to appeal, as some clergymen do, to the newspapers not to give space to his utterances. Let the man say what he pleases.

When he speaks the truth it will stand; when he utters falsehoods they will be ex posed. Genuine Christianity has nothing to fear from any human tongue or pen.

Virginia Wants a Railroad Commission. Virginia wants a railroad commission and the old controversy in regard to the power and authority that should be given to the board is going on. The Richmond State, for instance, says that the commission should not have the right to make rates, and yet this is the very power that gives vitality to the Georgia commission.

If Virginia wants a railroad commission that will count for something and benefit the people without injuring the railroads in the slightest degree, it should adopt the Georgia law as it stands. It is a vigorous law, but it is not too vigorous. It gives the commission power to fix maximum rates, and to prevent unjust discriminations against individuals and communitles. Virginia cannot do better than copy the Georgia law.

Pulling Together.

Hon. J. T. Chappell, of Laurens, whose valuable services in the last legislature will be remembered by the readers of THE CON-STITUTION, has a strong article in a recent issue of The Southern Alliance Farmer.

Dr. Chappell takes the position that there is, and can be, no conflict between demccrats in the alliance and democrats outside of the order. The alliance plants itself squarely upon the principles of Jeffersonian democracy. The farmers here in Georgia and in the south have always been the staunchest and truest of democrats in the past. They have never kicked or bolted, and their solid, unbroken front has enabled the party in every southern state to reestablish home rule and white supremacy.

Men with such a record are not going into third party when they see that the oldfashioned democracy is on their line, fighting for the reforms demanded by them. The democratic party cannot and will not underestimate or slight the agricultural interest, and alliancemen will find that their views are sought in council, and their leadership will be welcomed in the field.

A Bigot Kindled It is fun to see a bigot blaze and a fanatic on fire. Editor Shepard, of The New York Mail and Express, occasionally pulls off his sanctimonious mask, and regardless of the rules against profanity posted up in his office by his own order, he proceeds to outswear the army in Flanders.

Last Saturday's issue of Editor Shepard's remarkable paper had the usual scriptural text at its masthead, but to the astonishment of its readers one of its editorials was This proheaded "The World be D-d." fane article was a furious assault upon an esteemed democratic contemporary edited by Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, and decidedly favorable to Senator Hill. Before Editor Shepard's evangelical constituents had re covered from this shock their eyes struck the following malignant squib:

GENESIS OF A WORD: David Hill Dave Hill. Devill, Devil.

Now, when a professedly sanctified and godly editor allows his hatred of Senator Hill and his friends to overwhelm him in this unseemly way it is a spectacle to make angels weep and the judicious grieve.

Editor Shepard can no longer keep up his Pecksniffian masquerade. Triumphant emocracy has kindled the bigot and set the fanatic in a flutter. Because a tribune of the people has asserted and established the right of a democratic majority to rule, this 'Praise-God-Barebones' hypocrit drops his scriptural phrases and sputters the profanity and billingsgate of the slums.

It is all right. It is a tribute to trip democracy!

The Bank of France

The southern farmers who advocate the subtreasury system deserve a thoughtful consideration of their policy. It is not enough to sneer at it and claim that its impracticability is self-evident.

Mr. Horace G. Knowles, our consular representative at Bordeaux, writes in response to an inquiry that the Bank of France has, almost since its establishment, early in the present century, loaned money on non-perishable products, such as wheat, corn, wine, spirits, metals, etc., when such securities are deposited in reliable warehouses designated by the directors of the bank. Receipts are, of course, taken, and these are negotiable. The amount loaned on these products is usually equal to about two-thirds of their appraised value, and the rate of interest charged is about 3 per cent. Under this system the farmers of France have prospered for nearly a century, despite changes in government and destructive revo lutions and wars. But when it is proposed by the alliance to adopt the French system, legions of politicians and capitalists promptly denounce it as a crazy scheme, pregnant with the most disastrous results. Naturally, the alliancemen will ask the reason why. They will say: "If this system has worked satisfactorily in France, why would it not be a good thing for this country?"

The opponents of the subtreasury plan will have to get down to business and meet this question. The fact that the alliance is not wedded to details, but is willing to accept "something better," opens the way for the re-establishment of the state banking system. Why not repeal the tax on the currency of state banks and leave them free to start again wherever local necessities may call them into existence? State banks, properly regulated, before the war, issued bills that were good all over the country and in Canada. They supplied the demand for a local currency and loaned money to the farmers of the country. We believe that the rehabilitation of state banks would satisfy the alliance and the people generally, and give us an elastic currency that would answer our needs. The opponents of the subtreasury will have to compromise. They cannot defeat it without furnishing a bette substitute. The people are going to have more currency, and if they cannot get it under a system that has been satisfactorily tested they will try something more hazardous.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE NEW YORK SUN says: "The landholders of e south have received a great deal of advice to ise more grain and less cotton. As a matter of fact, they raised more corn and wheat, as well a more cotton, during the past year than they ever raised in any previous year. From statistics in hand, it appears that the corn crop of 1891 in the states south of the Potomac was abou three hundred and sixty-eight million bushels, or 117,000,000 bushels more bushels, or 117,000,000 bushels mor than that of the previous year, and tha he wheat crop was 59,000,000 bushels, a gain of 16,000,000 upon the year before. The price of cotton is unsatisfactory to its raisers, who indulge gloomy anticipations of next year's markets out the price of grain is high enough to remuner ate its growers, who are very sure to enlarge nex year's acreage of corn and wheat. JONES AND KOLB.

The Stirring Campaign in Progress in Alabama.

BITTER FEELING BETWEEN FACTIONS.

Factors Which May Enter Into the Race and Make It One of Sensational Interest.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., January 6 .- [Special.]-Since the last democratic state convention held in Alabama an actual and active Kolb campaign has been in progress every day. When Governor Jones received the nomination to the highest office within the gift of the people of the commonwealth the issue was then broadly made by the friends of Captain Kolb that he had been swindled of the nomination, and that thereby by keen politicians had perpetrated a shameful wrong and a grevious fraud on the farmers and other ardent supporters of Captain Kolb. "Remember the Alamo!" became the battle cry of Kolb men, referring to the last convention. So successful was the movement in welding the farmers into a determination to right Kolb's wrongs and make him governor next time, that it has looked to the studious politicians in the state as if he would have a walkover. Then came the appointment of Hector Lane by the governor to succeed Kolb as commissioner of agriculture. Following his appointment came public letters Lane had written to Kolb, in which it appeared that the governor's own appointee had handled him pretty roughly, and had been working with Mr. Kolb, attempting to bring about the governor's downfall. Following the publication of these letters there came an outer, for the of these letters there came an outcry for the withdrawal of Governor Jones and putting up some other man like Oates, for instance, as a candidate, this being deemed by the opposition as the only means of beating Kolb. So bright did Kolb's prospects become at this time and so gloomy was the governor's that numbers of politicians in different parts of the state, who had been hand and glove in the state, who had been hand and glove in the convention and even delegates came over to Kolb, this disintegration of the Jones forces reaching its climax in the person of Judge William Richardson. The campaign fairly opened in Jefferson county about two months before the primaries were held, when the county was conceded to be in favor of Captain Kolb against Governor Jones by a large majority on account of Kolb Jones by a large majority on account of Kol oming out in a statement that he opposed working convicts in the mines in Alaba worating convicts in the mines and that if elected governor he would have them withdrawn if he had to cancel the leases. Governor Jones met Kolb's statement by announcing that he did not approve convict labor ompeting with free men, and would do all in his power to have the act annulled, but he would not go so far as Kolb and agree to cancel the leases. For several weeks before the primaries were held, both Governor Jones and Captain Kolb devoted much time in canvassing the county. The campaign was mostly confined to the mines and small towns. The farmers to the mines and small towns. The farmers and working people, as a general thing, were for Kolb, the merchants and corporations for Jones. The total vote in Jefferson polled on December 21st gave Governor Jones a majority of 638. It is said that the man who saved him the county was Henry W. De-Bardeleben, who controls extensive mines at Blue Creek. He persuaded a great many of the miners who favored Kolb not to vote at all. Mr. DeBardeleben is the founder of Bessemer, and by personal appeals to the people of that city by personal appeals to the people of that city he changed it from Kolb for Jones. As many as four of the farming precincts never gave the governor a single vote. The Jefferson ounty farming element is the smallest part of any county in the state, not excepting Mobile, and if this is an index the state will be overwhelmingly for Kolb. To offset the moral effect of the governor's victory December 21st the friends of Kelb bare sailed a convention for next of Kolb have called a convention for next Monday in Madison county. Governor Jones and Captain Kolb are both canvassing that county this week. The most noteworthy featcounty this week. The most noteworthy feature of the campaign in that county is that Judge Richardson, of whom we made mention before in this special, one of the four candidates who combined to beat Kolb in the last dates who combined to beat Kolb in the last convention, is an enthusiastic supporter of him in this race. The friends of Governor Jones, who control the executive committee in Dallas connty, which has the same vote of Jefferson, are hurrying up action in that county for the sake of the moral influence of the undoubted victory the governor will achieve there. The canvass in Jefferson demonstrated that Kolb couldn't stand before the governor on the stump. Kolb is before the governor on the stump. Kolb is being advised by some of the most astute poli-ticians in the state, and their determined being advised by some of the most astute politicians in the state, and their determined policy is to hurry Kolb county conventions as fast as possible in order that the governor can't get around to speak. Unquestionably, at this time, if Kolb men succeed in bringing them on before the opposition can change the feeling among the farmers, his success is a foregone conclusion. As a concession to recruits from Jones's forces, Kolb men have abandoned the cry of fraud, and practically the only issue left is whether or not the governor can get around before the Kolb men call the different county conventions. So the fight is for and against time. The bitterness which has characterized the campaign, and has had no parallel, perhaps, in the political annals of Alabama, is mostly confined to the newspapers and politicians. Neither Jones abuses Kolb the political annals of Alabama, is mostly con-fined to the newspapers and politi-cians. Neither Jones abuses Kolb nor Kolb Jones. There are as yet no charges whatever of a slanderous and villify-ing nature against the governor, but all the undesirable appellations and denunciations that can be imagined are heaped upon the al-liance candidate, Captain Kolb. And it is thought that it will, if anything, help him among the farmers of the state, who are abused almost equally with him by some of the newsalmost equally with him by some of the newspapers. To illustrate the ferocity of politics in some parts of the state, I am informed that in Bibb, a Kolb and alliance county, and where President Adams, of the state alliance, lives, there is a disposition on the part of Jones men to disregard the present constituted party organization entirely by ent constituted party organization entirely, by refusing to act with them in the coming meetings. A new organization will be the result, and whatever factor dominates the state convention, their delegates, will be seated. The Jefferson delegation may also furnish a contest with a like result. It is rumored that, should Madison go for Governor Jones, it would virtually end the campaign. However, if Kolb wins with a walkover, it will "whoop" up his line of battle. It is my humble opinion that if Captain Kolb receives the nomination for governor in the coming convention ent constituted party organization entirely, by

The fact that The Boston Herald crowns Mr. Turner, instead of Mr. Springer, chief of the ways and means committee in congress, is not a conclusive argument displacing all doubt that he is "the best man" the eleventh congressional dis-trict can select to represent it. AWAY DOWN SOUTH.

From The Birmingham Age-Herald, Dem. Nearly everybody who has ever been in politic nd knows that politics are politics, is an admire of David B. Hill. From The Wheeling Register.

West Virginia's position in the matter is clear and has been defined at length frequently in The Register's columns. In brief, it is, whenever Virginia shall settle with her creditors West Virginia on demand, will meet with her to confer and agree as to West Virginia's share. From The Richmond Dispatch, Dem.

In article after article the republican papers of New York abuse Governor Hill.

It is about enough to convert one into a Hill man to read the articles cooked up by The Tribune, Times, etc., etc., for the sustenance of their readers. One might even go so far as to "dote cr the Tammany style of politics," if we may be permitted to borrow an expression from The Charles ton News and Courier.

One thing is certain. These denunciatory articles of our New York republican contemporaries do not foreshadow the defeat this year of the democratic party, but its success, let its candi-date be whoever he may be. We rejoice in the prospect of a democratic administration from March 4, 1893, to March 4, 1897, and we are not go-ing to cry if we find that the head of that administration is Cleveland, Hill, Gray, or any other sound and trustworthy democrat. We might even venture to rejoice over the election of a Tammany candidate.

A LOSS TO THE CENTRAL AVERTED. Had the Differential Been Reduced It Would Cost Savannah 100,000 Bales.

A charge has been made that the Richmond and Danville is diverting traffic from territory naturally belonging to Savannah, Brunwick, Charleston and Port Royal to West Point and Norfolk. This has been denied on the part of the Richmond and Danville. And THE CONSTITUTION can throw . light on the matter. It will give some facts, and the public can judge for itself.

The "differential" from Atlanta and between Norfolk and Savannah is 11 cents per 100 pounds on cotton. That is, the diffe between the rate from Atlanta to Savannah, and from Atlanta is 11 cents per 100 pounds and long has been.
Last season the rate from Atlanta to Savannah Ax cents a hundred on cotton. From Atlanta to Norfolk the rate was 56 cents dred. This season the rates were reduced a cents and stood at 43 cents from Atlanta to Norfolk. In round figures the "differential" may be put at 55 cents a bale, and, no matter whether freights went up or down, Savannah has had the benefit of about fifty-five cents 4 has had the benefit of about hity-nve cents a bale. And so has Brunswick and Charleston and Port Royal. The distance from Atlanta to Brunswick is 277 miles, and from Atlanta to Norfolk 750 miles. Norfolk is just about two and a half, times farther from Atlanta than Savannah is.

The freight on a bale from Atlanta to Savannah is $2.15, and from here to Nortolk is $2.70.

is $2.70.

Three weeks ago the Richmond and Danville endeavored to have the differential reduced to 6 cents a hundred or 30 cents a bale. Ocean rates are so much cheaper from Norfolk and West Point to Liverpool and other European Control of the C and west Foint to Liverpool and other European ports than from Savannah that, with the differential at 11 cents, cotton can be shipped from Atlanta and all points in middle and west Georgia, Alabama and western South Carolina to Europe by way of Norfolk or West Point at the same rate as by Savannah, if not at a less rate. It is said that on account of the cheaper ocean rates from Norfolk it is cheaper to ship that way than by the southern cheaper to ship that way than by the southern ports.

Had the differential been reduced to 6 cents there would be no doubt about it, for that would amount to a difference of 25 cents a bale. When this reduction was proposed the competitors of the Richmond and Danville kicked vigorously. They would not hear of any such thing, and were so firm that the Richmond and Danville proposed, as a compromise, a reduction to 9 cents a hundred. That meant a reduction of 10 cents on the bale in Norfolk's favor. The matter was argued before the arbitration committee of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association in December.

Traffic Manager Sol Haas, of the Richmond and Danville, argued in favor of the reduction. and Danville, argued in favor of the reduction. It was pointed out that the reduction would take at least 100,000 bales from Savannah and send them to Norfolk, and would take from four south Atlantic ports 250,000 to 400,000 bales and give them to Norfolk and West Point. It would cut the Central's revenue down at least $215,000 and give $270,000 to $400. bales and give them to Norfolk and West Point. It would cut the Central's revenue down at least $215,000 and give $270,000 to the Richmond and Danville on that 100,000 bales, and perhaps as much as $710,000 more on the business diverted from the other south Atlantic ports. The total gain to the Richmond and Danville proper would be over $500,000 in revenue and possibly as much as $980,000. Mr. Haas stated that Savannah and the other three neighboring ports cannot expect to be nursed and shown consideration all the time, and when he cast the Central's you it was.

nursed and shown consideration all the time, and when he cast the Central's vote it was against Savannah and in favor of Norfok and West Point.

The arbitration committee decided that the differential should remain at 11 cents and thus defeated the Richmond and Danville's aim.

THE CONSTITUTION has shown by the figures given above how the Richmond and Danville would have profited by the reduction of even 2 cents in the differential. To the shipper it would make no difference at all nor to the t would make no difference at all nor to the buyer, unless the charge for the rail haul to Norfolk was to be reduced from 54 cents to 53 cents. But it is likely that the paxt move would have been to raise the short haul charge to 45 cents. That, however, The Constitutional to 45 cents. TION does not assert positively. In the event the long haul charge were reduced to 52 cents the estimates of the Richmond and Danville's increased revenues would be scaled down from ten to forty thousand dollars. looked-outside of railros looked—outside of railroad circles. Assume that the Central hauled 100,000 bales to Savannah and got $215,000 in revenue therefrom. The Richmond and Danville being the lessee of the Central would have to divide with the minority stockholders, whereas if the 100,000 bales went from Atlanta to Norfolk the Richmond and Danville would get all of the revenue or the whole $250,000 or $270,000, as the case might be. There is one thing that has been overlooked in the figures given above and that is an "arbitrary" which the Richmond and Danville may have to pay on some of the long haul cotton, trary" which the Richmond and Danville may have to pay on some of the long haul cotton, but that is a small matter even in the aggregate—a few thousand dollars at the most.

Judging from the position of the Richmond and Danville's traffic manager in the application for a reduction of the "differential," the policy of the system is evidently to direct business from Savannab, Charleston, Port Royal and Brunswick to the northern terminals. That business has been diverted, is widely believed. That business has been diverted, is

GATHERED AT RANDOM.

The changes in the American Press Association take from Atlanta one of the best fellows who has been a part of the local newspaper world in a long time. That is "Bob" Wils who for a year or more has been manager of the Atlanta branch. He has made many warm friends here who hope he may decide to come back south.

Mr. Wilson's predecessor, Mr. Charles S. Patteson, is now in New York engaged in bringing out a new candidate for honors in the newspaper world-"Newspaperdom." It is a paper, as the name indicates, devoted to newspaper workers, and will doubtless make a place for itself. At present that field is held by Allan Foreman's Journalist, but the field is Allan Foreign for two.

Speaking of changes, a great many people in Atlanta will be sorry to have Street Commissioner Mahoney leave the office he has filled so capably and honorably; but all of these, probably, will be glad that the office has gone to so good a tellow as genial Dave Wylie. Change is one of the fortunes of politics. Atlanta has never had a more faithful or more capable public servant than Commissioner Mahoney, and he can justly feel proud of the record that he has made. Clarence Moore has made a splendid clerk and everybody who has business with the office i glad to know that he is to remain there.

The Virginia Society is to be congratulated upon their selection of an orator for the 19th, for there is probably nobody in the Old Dominion whom Atlantians generally will more gladly welcome than Colonel Charles T. O'Ferrall. Colonel O'Ferrall is one of the most pic-turesque figures in Virginia. As a soldier he was one of the most gallant that grand old state produced, and many are the stories of his bravery which the men who fought under him tell. He bears upon his body today the scars made by twenty-one federal bullets.

In congress Colonel O'Ferrall has been a prominent figure. He was one of the most enthusiastic of Judge Crisp's supporters for the speakership and did him valiant service.

There is one member of the Virginia Society whom Colonel O'Ferrall has indicated a special desire to see and be with during hi stay in Atlanta. That is Mr. E. C. Bruffey, of THE CONSTITUTION. Colonel O'Ferrall's he The Constitution. Colonel O'Ferrall's home is at Harrisonburg, where Mr. Bruffey lived as a boy, and the colonel and Mr. Bruffey's father were life-long friends. Often has the valiant Virginian trotted the infant "Bruff" on his knees, and the intimacy of those earlier days has never lessened. An uncle of the Atlanta journalist is the congressman's partner in the ownership of the staunch man's partner in the ownership of the staunch democratic newspaper which the former edits, and the families have always been closely con-nected. There is not much in stature in com-mon between Ed and the colonel, but, though the "long and the short of it," they are the

Mr. W. E. Wooten, of Albany, came up from the Artesian City yesterday to represent that city in the case before the railroad commission in which the railroads entering Albany are asked to give

"There are five railroads running into Albany," said Mr. Wooten, speaking of the suit yesterday, said Mr. Wooten, speaking of the suit yesterday, "and they all use a little shanty for a union passenger depot. Albany has patiently induled such a practice until recently, but she has outgrown that depot, and does not intend to put up with it any longer. The railroads instructed the railroad commission to appropring vesterday, that they will build a

THE NEW YORK MA REET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 6.—The stock market was less active today, and while material advances were segred in some of the stocks, the general list, as a rule, was held within narrow limits, and the final changes are insignificant. The opening of the general list was are insignificant. The opening of the general list was active but at irregular changes, reflecting continued efforts for reaction and taking of profits, while London was considerable of a seller, though the buying orders for that center afterward appeared in the market. The general fractional depression was followed by a partial rally, but prices, as a rule, were kept below the level of opening figures until the last hour, when new strength was infused into the market and the remarkal edyance wined out most of the early losses. new strength was intused into the market and the general advance wiped out most of the early losses. The close was active and strong, generally at insignificant changes for the day, but while Lake Shore is down 1 per ceft on very light transactions, Cleveland, Clicinati, Chicago, and St. Louis is up a like amount, Rock Island, 1%; Distillers, 1%, and Cordage, 2%. J. S. Bache & Co.'s Stock Letter.

NEW YORK, January 6.—The London market was a buyer of St. Paul to the extent of about 6,000 shares, and they also bought about 5,000 other stocks around ne news that Thomas and his friends had subscribed $5,000,000 to take up the floating debt of the company, brought in a number of buying orders for Richmond Terminal, and the stock was strong all day. The buying seemed to be very good, and we think this stock will sell higher. It is a very big system, and if stock will sell higher. It is a very big system, and if economically run it can be made to pay. At a meeting of the New England directors, Mr. Austin Corbin was elected president of the road, and a board of directors, consisting of prominent railroad men, was also elected. Some of the people that were formerly connected with the Rome, Watertown, and Ogdensburg, and who, after that sold out to the New York Central, were given seats in the board. About their future policy nothing is yet definitely known, but a meeting is to be held shortly in which their position will be policy nothing is yet dennitely known, but a meeting is to be held shortly in which their position will be made clear. The fact that such clear-headed men take made ciear. The fact that such clear-headed men take hold of a road that has heretofore been in a helpless financial condition, proves that their plans are well matured, and that they see their way clear to build up this property. The general market had a couple of small reactious, but as soon as the market weakened, one stock was taken up and advances to counteract any bad effect. Bock island was the leader today and advanced 2 per cent. As the market has had a and advanced 2 per cent. As the market has had a very large advance of late, holders of stock must be prepared to see a reaction at any time.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, January 6.—[Special.]—The Liverpool market is apparently less disturbed than our own by the large supplies of cotton. Prices there today were at no time lower than the lowest of yesterday, and at one time 2@3-664 higher. The closing was quiet at about last night's figures. Here the market opened at an advance of from 6@7 points, and some large busing orders were executed during the early session. Later a rumor of heavy receipts at New Orleans led to some selling and carried prices back to last night's figures, where they stand at 12 o'clock. The interior movement for the week promises to be very light. The semi-weekly movement at nine towns, as made up by the New Orleans cotton exchange, shows the receipts 12,000 bales less than last year, and a decrease of 4,000 bales in the stock for the week. During the afternoon information began to be received from the interior towns that the movement promised to be exceedingly light for the week, and the persistent absorption of cotton by prominent houses soon had its effect upon the market, and it gradually advanced, closing firm at about last night's prices. The strength of the market was noticeable in the nearby positious, and it is evident that cotton is being bought for investment by parties who, having the means, are disposed to own cotton without selling futures against it on the present low basis of values.

Lehman Bros.' Cotton Letter. By private wire to A. P. Youngblood.

By private wire to A. P. Youngblood.

NEW YORK, January 6—Liverpool opened alightly lower than yesterday, and this news was quite a surprise to our market. Notwithstanding this, however, there was no full response and no good support to prices at any time during the day. Under the first impulse prices became $600 points better, but very soon thereafter, under the old story of heavy New Orleans receipts for tomorrow_values quickly sold off, and have in a measure been sustained by the steadiness of the near mouths. We hear of a great many inquirles on the part of investors for the actual cotton; in fact, we know of cables-having been received from London inquiring into the matter. Local traders have of late generally acted on the short side, and in many instances assisted the decline. Their operations, however, until today have not been significant. We believe, however, tonight a number of prominent bears have again sold quite freely, and had it not been for this values would doubtless done better. We had a cable from our India friends stating that the exports from that source would be at least 400,000 bales less than last year. There has been large liquidation and also, we believe, some good buying. The interior movement for the week is estieen large liquidation and also, we believe, some good buying. The interior movement for the week is esti-mated at 45,000 to 50,000 bales, against 65,000 bales last week and 58,000 bales for the same week last year. Port receipts for tomorrow are expected to be about 50,000 bales.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. chicago, January 6.—The speculative markets were all fullish today, with hog products leading the upward movement. Armour, who openly sold about half a million bushels of wheat yesterday, is reported to have bought quietly yesterday and today about three million headels.

There was no change to speak of in the relative positions of the bulls and bears in the wheat market when trading commenced this morning. Selling by New Yorkers and St. Louisans on reports that the plant in the winter wheat region was protected snow caused weakness for a time, but the tide fina turned when later cables came in strong and it was reported that winter wheat was not in a condition to stand much cold weather, and a decided advance was the result. The shorts were the principal buyers, although the condition of the strong was the result. hough there was some investment demand as well.

There was a fair amount of activity in the corn pit, and although there was a spell of heaviness near the opening, the tendency during the greater part of the day was in favor of holders. The strength of the wheat market was a help to the corn bulls, and is called the "old bull clique" appeared to think p low enough to buy again.
Outs were quiet but firm, and showed a gain of Name, c.

The provision market led the day's bull procession, and that in the face of hog receipts being even heavier than was predicted yesterday. There were a good many buying orders in the hands of commission merchants, and packers were also helping the advance. The first prices were the lowest of the day, and the market was near the highest point at the close. There were some minor reactions during the session, but each successive advance carried prices higher. One strong feature was the bidding between packers and shippers for the receipts of live hogs.

CHICAGO, January 6.—The reports from the English markets quoted no improvement in the prices of spot wheat. Continental and English speculative futures are a shade higher. There was, however, quite liberal buying orders from exporters, and millers were picking up sample lots of off grades, causing a very healthy tone in the situation. The speculative trading was not large, but with few expertions was trading was not large, but with few exceptions, was trading was not large, but with few exceptions, was strong with an advancing tendency. Eastern shippers are very much handicapped by the inability of the railroads to furnish them cars.

We think nearly all the oats and a large portion of the corn in store would be immediately shipped out to eastern points that are really bare of stocks, could transportation be obtained.

The demand for corn around 40 cents per bushel is very large, and we do not think that the farmers are going to be so extremely anxious as to flood the mar-very large, and we do not think that the farmers are going to be so extremely anxious as to flood the market at present prices. Some of them at least will hold part of their corn until they have an opinion of what the next crop is going to be.

Either hogs are becoming less numerous in the country, or else they have heard of the fate of some of their companions, who have visited the large packing centers in excursion parties of late, and have concluded it better to enjoy the comforts of home life fer a time at least. Some of our local crowd do not seem so confident of their position, hence the sharp advance in all kinds of hog products. Foreign and domestic orders for immediate shipment were larger than nediate shipment were larger than usual. Some of the more important were received late

ON A BANANA PEEL.

A Gentleman Slips Up and Wants $10,-000 Damages.

TWO CHARTERS WERE APPLIED FOR.

Clerk's Office Yesterday-General Routine Work in the Court-House Offices.

A funny damage suit was filed in Clerk Tanner's office yesterday.

A broad smile passed over Captain George Forbes's countenance as he read it. The other attaches of the clerk's office smiled with him when they knew what the formidable docuent contained. It was a case where a man had slipped up on a banana peel, and demanded $10,000 damages from the man who owned the house, in which was the hall where the festive yellow banana hulk had lain in waiting for a victim.

George H. Howell, of Gainesville, is the plaintiff, and Mr. L. B. Folsom, the restaurant eper, is the defendant.

A Fulton county jury will have to decide whether the anatomy of the plaintiff was damaged to the extent claimed, or to any extent, and whether Mr. Folsom will have to part with his substance to make reparation therefor. The petition of the plaintiff occupies five pages of legal foolscap paper, and is drawn up with all the formality of a court paper. In his complaint Howell says that Folsom is an inkeeper, and styles his hostelry as "Folsom's European Hotel." He receives remuneration for the accommodation of guests. The petitioner set up his lares and penates under Mr. Folsom's roof early last year. The night of February 18th was necessarily dark, and somewhere about 10 o'clock of that night the plaintiff walked along a hallway of the European hotel. A banana peel was lying in the hallway and not agas jet was burning to warn him of its deadly presence. He stepped on it—and the ten-thousand-dollar damage suit tells the rest of the story.

"The banana peel," says the plaintiff's petition, "was where it should not have been, and the proprietor of the house was negligent and derelict in his duties. Great pain has been caused the plaintiff both physically and mentally."

A Charter Asked For. Tom Watson, the lightning change conhree incorporators asking for a charter in the perior court yesterday.

He, C. C. Post and Elam Christian filed an application in the clerk's office yesterday for a charter for the People's Paper Publishing Company.

Will Get Out on Bond.

Will Get Out on Bond.

Captain Bill Starnes, the transfer guard of the penitentiary, has gone to the Dade coal mines for Ed Jones, a young white man, who was sent up from Glynn county a few weeks ago convicted of robbery.

Jones—that's the name he was convicted under—is an Atlanta boy. He went to Glynn county about three months ago, and got on a lark with some young fellows of the town. His trouble gave him a sentence of ten years in the penitentiary. Since he was sent there some new developments have turned up, and a new trial was gotten for the young man. Captain Nig Simpson and Detective Bill Jones are both hard at work for him, and believe that he can be cleared of the charge. He will get here today and bond will be at once made for him.

A Mortgage Foreclosed.

Application was made to Sheriff Morrow yesterday for the foreclosure of a three-thousand-dollar mortgage on some real estate of Mrs. Helen Daily. The mortgage is in favor of M. and J. Hirsch, of this city.

THOMAS NELSON PAGE

Will Appear in Atlanta Very Soon-A Read ing for the Young Men's Library. Mr. Thomas Nelson Page will give a reading in Atlanta some time between the 27th of January and the 5th of February.

Everybody who attended the Piedmont chantauqua the year Mr. Grady had charge of it renembers what a delightful treat Mr. Page's read-It was worth a month's income to hear him read

Unc' Edinburg's Drownin'."

The audience was deeply impressed by the profound pathos of that scene, and about half the present were in tears. The selections for oming occasion have not been made, but will be chosen from the best of Mr. Page's writings.
Mr. Grady never got enthusiastic over an indif-ferent performance; it took something great to move him, and he was an enthusiast on Mr. Page's reading of the drowning scene. The library has for a long time desired to bring Mr. Page here and the directors are jubilant over his engage-ment. Said a gentleman who heard Mr Page at Chautauqua: "Thomas Nelson Page is great—one of the very best men on the platform. You can shut your eyes and hear the old darkies talking. His Virginia character sketches are simply perfect, and his reading is inimitable."

The library entertainment committee received yesterday afternoon a telegram from Mr. Page, replying to a letter proposing an engagement. The terms proposed were accepted by the library board at its meeting last night and a date the last of this month or the first of February will be settled on

The library entertainment committee is negoti ating for other lecturers of national reputation to appear in Atlanta within the next three months. Before long it is expected that further important "The Comforts of Home."

"All the Comforts of Home." with a great cast under the direction of Chaffles Frohman, will be presented at the opera house Friday and Saturday and at Saturday matinee.

It is a delightful exception to the average much-It is a delightful exception to the average muchheralded modern comedy. The idea on which the little story is developed is hoth original and extremely humorous, yet not impossible. The many ludicrous situations, strange entanglements, sudden unlooked for tableaux and happy cfimaxes are as well natural as equally consistent. The clever author, Mr. William Gillette, in his phalanx of varied characters, could not have chosen a more perfect collection of artists to portray his creations than is seen in this case. Every identical character seens expressly fitted to his or her part.
The plot, if plot there be of the play, may be sumed up briefly.

TO TEACH TEACHERS

State School Commissioner Bradwell's County Institutes.

HE GIVES THE PROGRAMME AND SYLLABUS

County Institutes of Georgia Getting in Shape-A Full Syllabus and Programme for the Commissioners.

The pamphlet giving the programme and syllabus for the county teachers' institute has been received from the press and is now in the hands of School Commissioner Bradwell. They are interesting to every one who is at all friendly to the great tidal-wave of higher education which the last session of the Georgia legislature has sent sweeping over the state. The story of how these county teachers' in-stitutes are to be established has already been told. In the circular that was issued vesterday State School Commissioner Bradwell maps the following programme for the guidance of county school commissioners, though he says the details may be varied to suit the circumstances: Beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning: Opening exercises, ten minutes; orthography, thirty minutes; reading, thirty minutes; writing, fifteen minutes; grammar, thirty minutes; recess, twenty minutes; geography, thirty minutes; arithmetic, forty-five minutes; recess for dinner, ninety minutes. Beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon: Science and practice of teaching, thirty minutes; miscellaneous, thirty minutes. First Saturday-Syllabus Orthography—1. Definition, 2. The importance of being a good speller. 3. Why it should be a daily exercise in school.

Reading—I. Definition. 2. Importance. 3. Oral and silent reading.

Writing—I. The importance of writing a plain, clear, legible hand.

English Grammar—I. The importance of a knowledge of language. 2. Written language, 3. Spoken language.

Geography—I. Definition of terms, 2. The earth—how to teach its shape, its size, its motions.

Arithmetic—I. The idea of numbers and the origin of figures. 2. Notation and numeration.

Science and Practice of Teaching—I. School organization. 2. Discipline.

Miscellaneous—I suggest that the last half hour be devoted to the discussion of questions relative to the previous lectures and to the school laws; and the day's work to conclude with a short exercise in declamation, with instructions as to position, gestures and bows, and the announcement of the programme for the next session of the institute. After the expiration of the half hour, I would make this division a matter of adjournment by a majority vote.

The syllabus for the second Saturday takes up nour, I would make this division a matter of adjournment by a majority vote.

The syllabus for the second Saturday takes up the same programme, and continues the course in teaching these branches. The only difference is that the grade is run forward to a somewhat advanced course.

The third Saturday will find the teachers still further advanced in these branches, and the syllabus becomes a little more intricate, and so with the third and fourth Saturdays.

Fifth Saturday-Syllabus. The syllabus for the fifth Saturday, which is the last session of the institutes, completes the course after the following fashion:
Orthography—1. The best methods of teaching spelling. 2. Give tests.

Reading—1. Best methods of teaching reading. 2. Tests in reading.

Writing-1. Practical illustrations and tests in writing.
English Grammar—1. The analysis of sentences.

Science and Practice of Teaching—How to teach—by example and precept: 1. Industry. 2* Honesty. 3. Truthfulness. 4. Temperance. 5. Avoidance of profanity and vulgarity.
These county teachers' institutes are something new in the history of the educational development of Georgia, but there is no reason in the world why they should not be a great success, and result in great good for the great movement for higher education.

THROUGH THE HOTEL CORRIDORS.

Mr. Robert Berner, of Forsyth, was among the prominent guests at the Kimball yesterday. He is better known, perhaps, as the author of the Berner bill to break the lease of the Central to the Richmond Terminal, which bill was passed by the last session of the house of representatives and snowed under in the senate.

Hon. Fleming G. DuBignon, of Savannah, was shaking the hands of his many friends in the cor-ridors of the Kimball yesterday. He was in the city on important professional business. Mr. H. Rexinger, the owner and general manager of the Athens ice works, was in the city yes-

A Gourd Used as a Powder Flask in the Revolutionary War. Mr. C. P. Murphy, who lives near West End, has a powder flask which has some his-torical interest. It is a common gourd, with a cork stopper. our late war. It was in the battle of King's mountain where it was taken from the body of one on, a soldier slain in that fight. Mr. Murphy has other interesting relics, bu values this gourd above them all.

GEORGIA WILL BE AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Thousands of School Children Will Begin the Work of Raising Funds-Dozens of Committees Being Appointed.

Governor Northen certainly is determined In the resolution to have Georgia represented at the world's fair in Chicago.

If there has been one characteristic of Governor Northen's rule more peculiarly interest-ing than another, surely it is his disposition to show off the Empire State of the South in her best clothes. He is impressed with the won-derful possibilities of Georgia, and he is proud to be governor of such a state. He has, from the first day of his inauguration, shown such a

How earnestly he is now at work with the untiring effort to secure a splendid exhibit from Georgia to be placed before the eyes of the civilized world at the world's fair is not fully known just now, but the good results of his work will soon begin to show. It can be safely put down that Georgia will have a display at Chicago.

"Yes." said Governor Northen yesterday. "I stake much faith in the pride and enter prise of the people of Georgia. Such faith it is that I profess that makes me feel assured this very important matter will reach a safe and satisfactory solution by raising a fund sufficient to secure the display." "How do you intend to start about raising

"That matter is in the hands of a large committee composed of county boards, a plan devised by the Macon convention. Through these county boards, acting as chairman of the committee, I hope to start the work of raising the fund in a few days. We intend first of all to work through the school children of Geor-

"Do you look to the school children to contribute money to this fund?"

"Yes, to them we will look first of all. We will have each county school commissioner to distribute a circular letter to each school in his county asking the teachers to get the scholars to interest themselves in the matter, passing and slips and securing subscriptions around sips and securing subscriptions of 10, 15, 20 and 25 cents from as many as are able to give. We will give, as a rightful incentive to accomplishing this end, a promise to have each of these subscription lists, with the names and amounts, forwarded to the department of state and filed in the state's archives ment of state and filed in the state's archives for reference long after these children have grown up and become useful citizens.

"Besides, we will have a committee'to solicit subscriptions from the farmers. 'Each county alliance president will be asked to get each suballiance to pass around a subscription list just as the children will do. Another committee will solicit among the manufacturers, and another among the corporations. All of these committees I shall announce in a very few days."

A Gigantic Scheme. A Gigantic Scheme.

"How do you think the money will be ex-pended when secured?" the governor was asked.

The work of arrangement will be divided out among various committees, each commit-tee representing each line of resources, the specimens from which are calculated to adorn the state's display. For instance, I am appointing a committee on mines and mining, a committee on manufactories, one on agricultural products, one on fruits, flowers and vegetables, one on art, one on woman's work, and one on ornamentation.

"This committee on ornamentation will have in charge the task of putting the finishing touches on the general make-up of the Georgia display. The committee will be composed of men of artistic taste—men who will know just how to make the splendid specimens secured show off beautifully and to their best advantage."

"Will Georgia have her own building on the fair grounds?"

fair grounds?"
"Yes. The building committee will hold "Yes. The building committee will hold a meeting in the near future, at which definite steps will be taken to carry out the plan suggested by Chairman Amorous, which is to construct the building here in Georgia out of Georgia material and then ship it by section to Chicago. Several unique designs for the building have been offered. One is to have it built in the shape of the state, with the counties outlined within of the state, with the counties outlined within as booths for county exhibits. I don't know which design will meet the favor of the con

"I am busy now appointing all these varied committees and will announce them in a few days."

It is really not strange after all that the people of Georgia should be so interested in these plans. Governor Northen receives dozens of letters by each day's mail asking about the progress of the work. A very interesting letter says according to the control of the control esting letter was received yesterday from Mrs. W. H. Felton, expressing her approval of the plan to have a Georgia building on the This work is not going to fail, that's certain.

IS THE THEORY, THAT ALL ENDEMIC, EPIDEMIC, AND CONTAGIOUS DISEASES, are produced by minute infecting germs or microbes, peculiar to each disease, which enter the system as mentioned in our Treatise, page 12, under the heading "What is BLOOD POISON?" Recent experiments show this to be a fact, and that the true way to rid the system of disease is to force out these microbes or germs through the pores of the skin, does this in the most effectual manner, by changing the character of the blood, so that the polsonous germs cannot exist in it; they are therefore forced out. S. S. S. not only forces out the microbes, but also the poison—both coming out through the pores of the skin; or if there should be a sore or ulcer the poison comes out through it. S. S. S. is entirely vegetable, is absolutely harmless, and builds up the general health, instead of depleting, as is the case with mercury and potash mixtures.

Real Estate Notes. "What about Atlanta real estate?" is a comm

"What about Atlanta real estate?" is a common question. Read a word about it:

1. Atlanta has more than 100,000 population. Her stores, shops, business houses and office buildings were never more thoroughly filled with occupants—really none are vacant.

2. The new waterworks, the Georgia, Carolina and Northern railroad, the new street car lines, the immense number of large and imposing business buildings, like the Equitable, the Law building, the Feachtree opera house and others, and the thousands of less note for business and residence purposes, show a rapid, healthy growth, and assure solidity and permanent increase in real estate values.

3. Postoffice business, great increase in school population, actual names in the directory and the daily charters for new enterprises give tangible proof that the city grows rapidly, and that real estate will be in constant demand.

4. Banks, loan companies and various financial institutions are being established, and the local bank clearances show an enormous general business done here, and that Atlanta leads in this section.

5. The aggregate of Atlanta's wholesale and resection.

5. The aggregate of Atlanta's wholesale and retail business is more than $100,000,000, and all lines of trade show increase. Her mule trade is the second largest in the world; her lumber industry goes to many millions; her fruit trade is enormous and enlarging; the city is an insurface center, a fertilizer center, a patent medicine center, a financtal center, an educational center; and it leads all in the number and diversity of its manufactures, and it is the capital of a great state.

manufactures, and it is the capital of a great state.

6. Being thus the centor of the south by virtue of its manufactures and trade, sustained by wonderful and increasing railroad facilities, it must increase in business and population as these gouthern states increase and develop their industries, and he is an ignorant man who does not know that the south is increasing in wealth at a tremendous rate, for Georgia alone shows an increase by voluntary assessment of more than $34,000,000 in nine years. So, as Atlanta receives contribution in wealth and population from all the southern states by virtue of her advantages, she must grow steadily and surely and her real estate continue to be in demand and increase in value.

7. We happened to hear Captain J. W. English, value.

7. We happened to hear Captain J. W. English, president of the American Trust and Banking Company, asked, "What he thought of Atlanta real estate?" and he replied: "I think well enough of it to keep myself $40,000 in debt to buy it." His faith has made him rich, and our faith is equally great, hence we can confidently advise our friends to invest in Atlanta property, and have no hesitancy in purchasing all we can ourselves. There is no reason, no room, for "croakers," and we invite you to call at our office and inspect our large and varied list of property, and to let us send you to see the property itself to buy it.
